MORE LETTERS STOKES CASE

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—A crowded court greeted the reappearance of Lillian Graham on the stand today for the resumption of her cross-examination by Assistant District Attorney Buckley as to events prior to the shooting of W. E. D. Stokes, with which she and Ethel Conrad are charged.

The expectation that more "Old Code" letters and more minutes from the show girl defendant would be read added to the interest shown by the spectators.

Miss Graham, who was fatigued and apathetic when court adjourned, still showed the effects of the ordeal of cross-examination when trial was resumed today.

Miss Graham was disconcerted by the reading of the letters introduced by the prosecution. The first letter, from Miss Graham to her mother, was from the Boston Herald, dated Jan. 1, 1911, in which the defendant asserts her innocence.

There was a further reference to the $1,000 which Miss Graham claims she gave to Stokes to keep and which, as the story runs, was lost. David Thompson, June 1, 1911, was written by her to the effect that she had written her brother and asked him to write her.

Miss Graham's brother, who was not in court, was not called to the stand. The letters were read in the afternoon.

Reads Many Letters.

The "Old Code" letters about Chicago which were introduced in the case of Miss Graham, were followed up by reading three of Miss Graham's letters to her mother, which she had written to her mother at that time in December, 1911. She said that she did not understand what it meant.

The prosecution then read a letter from Stokes to his mother, dated Jan. 1, 1911, in which he said that he had written her and asked her to write him.

Stokes, it was said, had written her and asked her to write him. The letters were read in the afternoon.

The witness said she had written the letters and that she had written them to her mother.

CROWN KING AND QUEEN

DELAH, Dec. 12.—King George and Queen Mary were solemnly crowned Emperor and Empress of India here today with a scene of unrivaled grandeur.

King George in person presided at the coronation. Before dawn thousands had crowded the great amphitheater where the proceedings were staged.

British gunboats in state equipment and Indian troops in magnificent uniforms of gold and silver began to arrive on the scene hours before daylight.

The British officials and the native nobles were the privileged guests. The princes and all the women guests were gorgeously dressed and displayed the great collection of jewels that were India's.

AGAIN CONFIRM NEWSMEN PLAN NEW BEDFORD MUSICAL SHOW

NEW BEDFORD, Dec. 12.—Attorney David I. Walsh of Fitchburg, with State Detectives Flynn, Day and Hodges, who are probing the alleged wholesale vice ring, conferred with Judge Frank A. Miliken of the New Bedford District Court today.

It was understood the conference was held for the purpose of discussing the matter of issuing warrants for the arrest of prominent citizens against whom charges have been made.

Attorney Walsh came here today to resume his investigation, after talking the case over with Governor Faneuil and the State House.

This fact was taken to indicate that probably within the next two or four days the State police will have actually made the arrests which have been expected for several days.

After the conference was over, neither Mr. Walsh nor the State police will have any further to say about the case.

CONDITION OF ELIOT SERIOUS

Although cablegrams received by Dr. Samuel A. Eliot in Cambridge state that there has been much improvement in the condition of his father, President Roosevelt, the doctor's report is that the condition is not so good.

According to the reports of the attending physician, however, no complications have arisen.

Dr. Eliot was operated on for appendicitis at Kebley, Conn., on Saturday. The last cablegram received by his son in Cambridge "simply says": "A comfortable day."

James Mackinlay of Edinburgh, Scotland, who is visiting friends in Boston, says that the Boston gaffers are not as good as the ones Mr. Mackinlay has seen in his native city.

One Mr. Mackinlay, who has lived in Boston for fifty years. Around Boston, when the local gaffers wish to refer to old times here in Boston, they mention George Wright, Sam Macdonald, C. C. Bell and others who date their games as far back as 1890.

But the Boston gaffers are not so old as the ones that date Mr. Mackinlay had been making drives of Scotch lochs and getting out of the country for many years.

Mr. Mackinlay is an old member of the Edinburgh distilling house, Charles Mackinlay & Co., which was founded in 1820. In the royal game there were a smart half-dozen of the best Scotch lochs in the world. But the same number in England. He is a member of the Edinburgh one of the champions of the world.

The Scottish expert has firm views of the need of British tariff reform. He says the income tax is excessive, the land tax scheme unwelcome and the proposed insurance bill inadequate. He says that a tariff is needed to give relief from the present high taxes, to save crippled industries and to provide Great Britain with a means of bargaining with other countries.

The fight for the majority in Somerville is between Mayor Charles A. Burns, who is seeking a second term and is Republican, and James F. Reynolds, an ex-alderman, who is the Democratic and Citizens' candidate. There are twenty-one aldermen to elect, and the fighting for seats in the board has served to bring out a big vote. Somerville has been a no-license town for several years, and the Citizens' party, known as "the wetts," hope to do it to cut the "dry" majority. Mrs. Elizabeth T. Moogan, a former school teacher, is seeking the first ward seat, and Mrs. William H. Fishel has held for twelve years. There is about as much interest in this battle as in the majority contest. The number of women voters has increased, too, and Mrs. Moogan's friends greet encouragement.

Mrs. Davis's husband, an engineer, declares that his best friend, who fires of the same locomotive, broke up his home.

IN LOCOMOTIVE

That old story told again and again by the ancient fiction writers when they worked their plot around the breaking up of a household through the introduction of the husband's best friends was rehearsed to the Boston police early to-day following the arrest of Arthur W. Cate, a Boston & Maine fireman, and Mrs. Edna A. Davis of Lynn, in the South End.

Like a recurring senecela, George A.

Davis, a Boston & Maine engineer who works in the same locomotive cab with Catt, stood by while policemen and private detectives entered the house at No. 11 Union Park street. Davis is the husband of a woman who was placed under arrest early to-day, and his friends say his domestic troubles started when he invited late one day to his home at No. 15 City Hall Square, in Lynn. The two men were old friends, both having lived at Sanbornville, N. H.

The police at the East Dedham Street Station, his wife left his home last July. News that their married life had gone awry shocked and surprised their friends.

To-day it was said that Cate is married, having a wife and four children living at Dover, N. H.

Very suspicious. At first, as the police stated, he was unwilling to believe his co-worker Cate was to blame for his wife's leaving home. Facts came under his notice, however, which he could not forget. It is alleged, and he employs

HARVARD STARS FOR BIG MEET

William E. Quinn, trainer of Harvard University track team, has notified the Championship Committee of the Amateur Athletic Union that Harvard will be represented in the Indoor Championships which take place at Madison Square Garden on December 26 and 27, by as strong a team as he can get together.

One of the men on whom Harvard is banking to show well is C. E. Brickley, who will compete in the hop, step and

In 1910 Brickley won the New England Association hop, step and jump championship with a performance of only forty-six feet.

He has improved greatly since then in fact he has consistently bettered forty-nine feet in practice. He should make a very good showing at the championships.

The high jumpers will find a worth-

Harvard aspirant for championship honor.

Moffatt will be one of the mainstays of the Harvard team in the various dual meets next spring, and be should finish among the leaders in the high jump contest.

Harvard depends to make a good showing in the championships. Cummings will start in the 100-yard race, but should show especially well in the seventy-five yard hurdle. Coach Quinn is paying particular attention to Cummings, as he feels confident he has the ability to be one of the greatest hurdlers we ever had.

In addition to Brickley Moffatt and Cummings about half a dozen other Harvard men will enter, and those, with entries from Cornell, Pennsylvania and Georgetown, will make the indoor championships practically an intercollegiate meeting.
